

Director of the Library

The Board of Trustees of the Free Library of New Hope and Solebury, Pennsylvania is seeking an experienced leader with vision, creativity and commitment to excellent community services. Proven administrative, fiscal, planning and public relations skills are critical. Excellent written and oral communication skills plus leadership and management/organizational skills are a must. Ability to work collaboratively with the Library Board, volunteers, the Friends group, the Foundation and other community organizations. Experience with new building projects and capital campaigns would be a plus.

Candidates should have extensive leadership/management experience. An undergraduate degree is required and a graduate degree desired. Library Science training is desired either through demonstrated experience or an accredited American Library Association degree program. The Trustees are open to consideration of truly outstanding non librarian candidates with demonstrated leadership and administrative skills and a willingness to complete the State required library course requirements.

The Free Library of New Hope and Solebury has operated continuously for the past 100 years in picturesque Bucks County Pennsylvania, about one hour north of Philadelphia. Our values focus on delivering excellent community service through wide ranging content (books and digital), innovative programs and stimulating events.

The Director reports to the Board of Trustees of the Library. Salary to be determined (dependent upon qualifications). Excellent health benefits.

APPLICATION DEADLINE: December 15, 2011
